

Bradley Asks Military Plan To Arm Europe

Would Help Countries To Stop Invasion

New York, April 5—(AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley tonight called for a military aid program that would strengthen the "ramparts" of western Europe and stop an aggressor before he could overrun the continent.

In a major speech, the army chief of staff unveiled some of the strategic thinking of the army high command.

The idea has been widely held that it would be impossible to stop Russia from conquering all Europe if it chose. The best the United States could do, according to this argument, would be to strike back with air power and eventually lead a counter-attack to liberate the continent.

Bradley flatly rejected this thinking. He contended such strategy would breed despair among potential allies in Europe and render them impotent.

His remarks took on added significance when he explained that he had been requested by the State department "to comment publicly on the military security significance of the North Atlantic pact, and its implementation."

The defense pact, signed yesterday in Washington, will soon be up for senate ratification. The administration plans to follow it up with a request for funds to re-arm Europe. "There have been pre-conditions that this program might total $1,250,000,000 or more for the first year."

Referring to the defense treaty, Bradley said:

"It must be perfectly apparent to the people of the United States that we cannot count on friends in western Europe if our strategy in the event of war dictates that we shall first abandon them to the enemy with a promise of later liberation. Yet that is the only strategy that can prevail if the military balance of power in Europe is to be carried on the wings of our bombers and deposited in reserves this side of the ocean. It is a strategy that would produce nothing better than impotent and disillusioned allies in the event of war."

The graying general, who led American ground forces in Europe in the last war, made his remarks in a speech prepared for a meeting of Jewish war veterans.

Former Rep. Buck Shot; Identifies Would Be Assassin

New York, April 5—(AP)—A gunman stepped out of a rush hour crowd on a Staten Island street today and shot and seriously wounded former Republican Rep. Ellisworth E. Buck.

District Attorney Herman Methfessel witnessed the shooting from his office in a building Buck just had left.

Moments later, passerby halted a man fleeing from the scene and brought him back to Buck's side.

"Take him away. He's the man who shot me," the injured man said as he looked up.

The assailant was identified as Charles Van Newkirk, 57, a former merchant marine engineer from Amherst, N. H.

Van Newkirk was quoted by officers as saying "I had my own personal reasons" for the shooting.

Beyond that he would not discuss the motive, the police added. He was charged with felonious assault.

Methfessel said he was investigating the possibility that Van Newkirk sought revenge for the failure of a congressional committee to reinstate him in a job.

Georgians Brave Rain To Cast Vote Against New Taxes

Atlanta, April 5—(AP)—Georgians braved rain and mud today to vote overwhelmingly against $46,000,000 in new taxes for improved state services.

Reports from all over the state, including cities and rural precincts, rolled up an insurmountable margin of three to one against the program less than an hour and a half after polls closed.

The count was complete in 698 precincts, including many of the largest of the state's 1,737. It showed 17,558 ballots for the program and 37,029 against.

House Group Approves Funds To Combat Reds

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Extra millions of dollars to combat subversive activities in the United States and to build up the voice of America abroad were recommended today by the House appropriations committee.

It approved a $52,585,141 fund for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which is $6,855,141 more than the agency got this year and $1,598,141 more than President Truman recommended for the 1950 fiscal year, which starts next July 1.

A $34,000,000 appropriation was recommended for the state department's Voice of America program, up $2,900,000 from this year's total. These and many other items ranging from census takers' equipment to lawbooks for federal judges were included in a $747,216,102 appropriation bill to finance the activities of the state, commerce and justice departments, and the federal judiciary, during the new fiscal year. The bill will be debated in the House later this week, then sent over to the Senate for action there.

The total included $864,616,102 in cash and $62,600,000 in contract authority, divided as follows:

State department—$271,405,656 in cash and $2,900,000 in contract authority.

Commerce department—$259,927,605 in cash and $58,800,000 in contract authority.

Justice department—$132,579,141 in cash and $900,000 in contract authority.

Federal courts—$20,703,700 cash. The state department was the only one of these general agencies for which less money was recommended than in the current year. It took a cut of $11,538,434 in cash and $24,500,000 in contract authority.

The $34,000,000 recommended for the Voice of America overseas program was $2,000,000 less than Mr. Truman requested in his budget. The committee approved the general objectives of the program but said it felt that too rapid expansion of it would lead to "waste and inefficiency."

Budenz, one-time communist official in Washington, will soon be up for senate ratification. The administration plans to follow it up with a request for funds to re-arm Europe. "There have been pre-conditions that this program might total $1,250,000,000 or more for the first year."

Army, Air Force, Navy Told To Quit Squabbling Or Else

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Army, air force and navy officials received blunt notice today that if they violate orders against public squabbles they will face a congressional investigation.

This warning was posted by the House armed services committee in adopting the following resolution:

"If persons in the armed services, or in their employ, continue to pass statements to the press which are calculated to depreciate the activities of a sister service and which, at the same time, jeopardize the national security, the committee will step in with a full scale investigation."

Only last week Secretary of Defense Johnson moved to end interservice rivalry and bickering by commanding that "there will be no rivalry between the three services for headlines, no release of things that are secret."

Johnson, however, has no clearly defined authority as yet to enforce this ruling—aside from White House support for his drive to make unification of the services a practical reality instead of a paper policy.

So pending congressional action on President Truman's proposal to give the new defense secretary real authority to carry out the unification program, the House committee's investigation threat will serve as a potent standby club.

Estimated Dead In Effingham Hospital Fire Rises To 65

Woman In Labor Escapes With Nurses

By Mrs. June Adermon

Effingham, Ill., April 5—(AP)—I think our family was the only lucky one in the fire.

About 8:30 last night, I was taken to the hospital. I was put in the labor room with another girl.

About 11:30 a nurse took me to the delivery room.

In about 20 minutes I began to smell smoke. The nurse said she thought rubber gloves were being burned.

She went to investigate. But she came back and said nothing seemed wrong. But a minute later she went back into the hall.

It was filled with flames then. The nurse slammed some double doors. Then she and another girl who was in the hall helped me to a window. We broke through.

Someone said the other girl in the labor room had jumped from the second floor. But later I heard she broke her back and lost her baby.

The three of us climbed out onto a roof. All we could see was straight walls down.

People seemed to be jumping from other parts of the building. Some of them were sprawled on the ground.

Just then my husband and two other men ran up to the building with a ladder.

My husband rushed me home. We live about three blocks away. A short time later the baby was born.

My husband has named him Charles Lee, but everybody already is calling him "Lucky."

My older boy, Tommy, he's in the second grade—likes the name "Toughy" better.

But I guess time will tell whether he will be called Charley or Lucky.

U.S. To Display Power In Germany To Fete Army Day

Frankfurt, Germany, April 5—(AP)—The U. S. army will stage its biggest display of power in Germany since the war in Army Day parades tomorrow.

The demonstration will underscore America's pledge to help defend western Europe against aggression.

The U. S. army here has a long way to go before it could be a powerful defensive force. But hundreds of guns, tanks and planes will show America's co-signers of the Atlantic pact that the army is determined.

The show probably will be the largest held in western Europe since allied troops whipped Germany into submission in 1945.

It certainly will be the largest for U. S. forces here. Last year the army's strength was so unimpressive that American military commanders held no demonstration at all.

Senate Demos Defeat Attempts To Cut ERP

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Administration forces in the senate today defeated a series of proposals to tighten the reins on the spending of American billions by the 16 Marshall plan countries of western Europe.

However, by voice vote, the senate accepted an amendment directing that half of U. S. aid supplies be shipped abroad in American vessels.

With administration forces riding high, the senate suddenly picked up speed after 10 days of lagging debate on President Truman's request for $5,580,000,000 "second installment" of European recovery funds.

Senate leaders said there was a bare possibility of getting a final vote on the legislation tonight.

In rapid succession, the senate rejected these proposals:

1. An amendment by Senator Jenner (R-Ind.) which would have required Marshall plan administrator Paul G. Hoffman to buy only American farm commodities when there was a surplus in this country or farm products are selling at low prices. The vote was 48 to 32.

2. An amendment by Senator Ellender (D-La.) to forbid the use of so-called Marshall plan "counterpart funds" for the payment of interest, administrative expenses or retirement of national debt by the beneficiary nations. On this, the vote was 55 to 27.

3. A second Ellender amendment which would have required American aid countries to set aside at least 25 per cent of the "counterpart funds" to stimulate the production of critical materials needed by the United States. The vote was 56 to 22.

With support from chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee, the chamber adopted an amendment by Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) that 50 per cent of American-aid supplies be shipped in American ships—a move designed to aid the U. S. merchant marine against low-priced foreign shipping.

Connally, floor manager of the new ECA bill, spoke out against Ellender's amendment to restrict the Marshall plan nations in their use of American aid funds. The Texan said it would hamper European governments in their fight against inflation.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb.) won approval from the Senate foreign relations committee for his proposal that ECA create a small business section. It would help American small businessmen get a bigger share of ECA's huge purchasing program.

Springfield, Ill., April 5—(AP)—A bill to appropriate $1,000,000 in state money to help communities fight juvenile delinquency was defeated today in the Illinois senate appropriations committee.

A motion to recommend the bill for passage was lost, 10 to 8, after Senator William Connors (D-Chicago) said funds would not be available for the proposal.

The measure, sponsored by Senator Peter Miller (R-Chicago), would appropriate the $1,000,000 to the state welfare department for distribution to communities. The state grants could be used to aid in construction of youth centers or establishment of youth recreation projects in communities.

In other action, the committee endorsed for passage a bill to appropriate $10,000 to pay Illinois' portion of expenses to set up a bi-state development agency. The agency would plan for development of public transportation facilities in the St. Louis Metropolitan area in Illinois and Missouri.

However, a resolution came in the senate today proposing that all 126,000 age pensioners and 4,800 blind persons receive the cost of living adjustments.

The resolution said the bills apply the cost of living provision to new pensioners who qualify for the $65 limit on the basis of their needs. An estimated 1,300 old age pensioners fall into this category.

The resolution said it is the senate's intent to have state and county agencies review all pension awards and make cost of living increases.

Washington, April 5—(AP)—The House approved a $701,122,079 appropriation for the agriculture department today, to help farmers produce food and fiber, fight pests, find markets, make a profit and conserve their soil.

Before passing the bill by a voice vote, the House heard warnings of growing price-depressing surpluses in agriculture and reminders that the city man's economic condition is tied in with the farmer's.

Farm state representative shouted that the parity of income for the farmer must be protected. The bill provides $30,000,000 to make plans for production controls in cotton, corn, wheat and rice—if this is needed to maintain price supports of these basic crops.

The measure is the annual appropriation for the 1950 fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1949. The House voted it to the Senate, and opened a week in which the House may set a new peacetime record for handling money.

He referred to provisions for a year's imprisonment and a $5,000 fine for anyone who willfully violated an order issued by the secretary of defense to safeguard ships, airplanes, harbors and airfields.

44 Bodies Removed From Ruins

By Bill Tobin and Tom Maddox

Effingham, Ill., April 5—(AP)—The estimated toll of dead and missing rose to 65 today in a horrifying midnight fire that roared at high speed through St. Anthony's hospital.

The hospital registrar made the estimate. Earlier estimates by reporters and the Red Cross ranged from 47 to 54, and Mayor H. B. Rinehart expressed fear the death list would reach 60.

A dozen new-born babies perished in the holocaust. But one expectant mother escaped through a window—although in labor—and safely gave birth to a son.

The fire burst out of a clothes chute shortly before midnight last night. It leaped fiercely through wooden-floored halls and quickly engulfed the more than a hundred patients.

The registrar, Miss Helen Wiseman, said 20 identified and 24 unidentified bodies were removed from the debris and 21 were still missing tonight. Records were lost, but she said the hospital believed 124 patients and staff members were in the building when it caught fire.

She said it may be several days before all bodies are removed from the smoking rubble piled high inside the blackened walls.

Earlier, 54 bodies were estimated by Associated Press reporters, with the aid of official sources.

A late afternoon Red Cross estimate put the total at 33 known dead, 15 missing and presumed dead, and six not accounted for but not listed as missing.

The Red Cross said there were 61 identified survivors of the 115 persons it estimated were in the hospital at the time of the fire.

Search operations were halted at darkness by Frank Wilkins, Effingham fire chief. He said the search for missing persons would be resumed at dawn tomorrow. A heavy rain fell late today, hampering efforts to recover the dead.

The blaze was the nation's second most tragic hospital fire. The most disastrous was one which killed 124 persons in the Cleveland, O. clinic hospital of Dr. George W. Cline on May 15, 1929.

Some patients, including expectant mothers, leaped from fiery windows. Bedfast patients shrieked in agony as the fierce flames turned the haven of mercy into a raging inferno.

Nurses, Nurses Brave Flames

Heroic nurses and nurses braved sheets of flame in attempts to save the sick. Several perished with their charges. One was a nurse, Miss Fern Rile, 23. She died trying to rescue the babies.

A nun detected the first shortly before midnight in a laundry chute. Eyewitnesses said it spread quickly. "Like a ball of fire."

Only the walls of the main buildings still stood today. The tangle of smoldering wreckage within the brick hospital's hollowed shell slowed attempts to find bodies hidden under the debris.

The hospital's chaplain, the Rev. Charles C. Sandon, 50, died in a room next to the chapel.

In the hospital's nursery, firemen found the charred bodies of eight new-born infants, still in their flame-blackened metal cribs.

William Esch, a photographer who helped rescue work, said he saw three women leap from the top floor. He added:

"It was terrible. I could hear people trapped inside, screaming."

Benedict, 66, a male nurse, suffered severe burns in helping a dozen patients to safety. Sobbing hysterically, he said he tried in vain to lead others out—"but I couldn't, the place was a whole ball of flame."

Fire Chief Frank Wilkins said the fire started in the basement, then shot up the laundry chute and elevator shafts. He said the cause is not known.

NOTHING FUNNY FOR FINNS
IN 'WOLF HUNT' FAIRY TALE

Maybe the master minds in the Kremlin have decided to rewrite the old nursery tale and call it Big Red Riding Hood. Or perhaps they are doing a new version of the story that goes with the musical score of "Peter and the Wolf," by their in-and-out-of-the-doghouse composer, Serge Prokofiev. But whatever the motive, they profess to be all excited about wolf hunts in Lapland, along the Soviet borders of Norway and Finland. The Kremlin charges that the purpose of the wolf hunts was espionage, and the "study and preparation of a suitable location for a military base." It charges further that the wolf hunts were military expeditions in disguise, with Finnish army officers among those present. British and American observers are also alleged to have gone along disguised as photographer-reporters. (This reference apparently is to two staff members of Life magazine who covered the hunt and took pictures of it.)

The Soviet army publication Red Star says that "over this strategically important area military airplanes flew, army half-tracks crunched, radios blared, and it was possible to photograph every individual wolf."

In other words, the Russian government asks us to believe that big bad Finland (pop. 4,000,000) and big bad Norway (pop. 3,000,000) are trying to intimidate the Soviet Union (pop. 210,000,000) by military maneuvers along its borders. We are asked to believe that those two big bad countries are spying on the Soviet Union, and spying in a brand-new kind of way. Formerly espionage was conducted in stealth and secrecy. But the new kind is carried on in broad daylight and in full view of the intended victim. It employs roaring airplanes, crumpling half-tracks, blaring radios, a large company of men and, we should logically assume, a brass band.

We are also asked to believe that capitalist America, which has atomic bombs and round-the-world bombers to carry them, sent poorly disguised observers along on this noisy and conspicuous spying expedition because it is vitally interested in a base in the frozen north at Russia's front door.

All this may be ridiculous, but it is no laughing matter. For it is only one of a series of charges that Russia has been making against the government of Finnish Premier Fagerholm. He is also accused of wanting to co-operate with the North Atlantic Treaty nations, and of other behavior which has caused the Soviet government to lose confidence in his desire to carry out his obligations under the Russo-Finnish treaty.

This cannot help but be disturbing to Finland. The wolf hunt story should not be confused with an excited, emotional witch hunt. It looks, rather, like part of a carefully planned attempt either to force a change of government in Finland or to give Russia an excuse to move into Finland and take over.

New Drugs Help
In Treatment Of Osteomyelitis

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Osteomyelitis is a disease of the bones in which dangerous germs destroy the bone and cause pus to form. In the sixteenth century, severe cases were usually treated by amputation. Repulsive applications such as crushed body lice, incinerated toads, oriental herbs, boiling oil, powders made from Egyptian mummies, oil of roses, turpentine or mixtures of egg yolk were frequently used.

The many surgical treatments used over the years were all aimed at destroying or removing the dead bone and pus and allowing the new pus which was formed to drain to the surface. Ingenious instruments for boring into the bone and scraping out all of the infected material have been devised.

MANY TREATMENTS

One of the most interesting forms of treatment has been the use of maggots. Maggots eat only tissue that is dead. Thus, if they are placed in an area containing dead bone and other dead cells, they destroy the dead material and clean up the cavity without harming that part of the bone or surrounding tissues which is still alive. When they have completed their job, they can be removed easily. This form of treatment for chronic osteomyelitis is still used by some authorities.

Recently new methods of attack on osteomyelitis have been developed. The "sulfa" drugs and the antibiotics obtained from molds or germs, which are called antibiotics of which penicillin is one, are now used. Several members of both groups are useful in osteomyelitis. By using them it has become possible to save many people with osteomyelitis from months or even years of hospitalization and repeated surgery. For some, of course, surgery is still necessary.

Answer: This is probably asthma. It could be caused by an allergy or it could come from a heart condition. The cause should be investigated. This condition should not be allowed to continue without proper treatment.

ROGER THE LODGER

By Elizabeth R. Roberts

THE STORY: It's wartime and Mr. and Mrs. Rogers of Great Falls, Mont., take in lodgers. Their first and star boarder, Roger the Lodger, uses the Rogers home to win an officer's training appointment. When he goes off for school, four construction engineers move into the main's vacant apartment in the basement. Next Lieutenant Vickery and his bride move into the guest room. Although the six new guests bring problems, all of them together is not the problem child that Roger was.

XIV
MARCH came in like a lion, and so did Roger, as though he'd been gone three hours instead of three months. As usual, I was getting dinner when the phone rang and a blithe voice said, "How's conditions?"

Like an Oriental, I deprecated our humble abode, our humble service, our humble fare.

I said the house was full of people, four in the basement, two in the guest room.

"Bill home?" he asked.

"No, not yet. But we're expecting him."

Roger drew an easy breath.

"That's perfect. Be right down."

I appealed to Rob. "Don't worry, Toots," he reassured me. "We got an exclusive listing in the office today on a furnished house. I'll cinch it for Roger." I made Rob phone the owner right away to tell her it was rented. I felt saved.

When Roger drove up in a staff car, chauffeured by a Wac, I was almost cecid.

"It's good to be home," he boomed, with an admiring eye on his officer's cap. He hung it with his coat in the vestibule closet, carried his bags up to Bill's room, and spent a minute chatting with Sonny and Sally who had come out in the hall to see what all the racket was about. He told them how pleasant it was to have them aboard. He called on the boys in the basement, welcoming them to his old quarters, and invited them to join us upstairs after dinner.

Robbie went over to the piano to play but before he struck a note, he remembered about the house. "Oh, Roger, I've got good news for you. A very comfortable furnished house was listed with us today."

INSTEAD of leaping into the air and yelling "Whoopie!" as we expected—houses of any kind, especially furnished, were practically non-existent—Roger leaned forward, gazed thoughtfully into the fire, took plenty of time to weigh the matter, then asked guardedly where the house was located. Robbie gave the address. Roger sank back in his chair and smiled tolerantly. "Wrong side of town."

"Wrong side of town, my foot!" Rob barked. "There's no such thing now as a wrong side of town. A house is a house and you're lucky if the roof doesn't leak."

"I'll take it," John said, with the eagerness we had hoped for from Roger.

"You forgot," Roger said patiently to Rob, ignoring the others, "I have two young children."

"Babies!" Rob roared. "What difference does it make where they live?"

"These are formative years," Roger reminded him. "It makes a very great deal of difference."

"It doesn't to me," John said.

"I'll rent it sight unseen," Sally said to Roger. "That's an exploded fallacy that environment is important. Never forget, you buttered your bread. Now you'll have to live in it."

John got the house, and we still got Roger.

Our M.C., aware no doubt of the slump in Roger-Roberts solidarity, looked out of the window and remarked that it had stopped snowing and that he proposed all the men go out and clear the walks.

ALL the men worked except Rob. Always allergic to work, he nursed his grouch by the fire while Sally and I busied ourselves in the kitchen. I sliced Bermuda onions thin and put them to soak in French dressing. Later, Sonny, taking a bite of a sandwich, said, "What have you done to these onions?"

"Marinated them."

"You know, Sonny, what people do on Sunday to clothes that are to be washed on Monday," Sally explained.

The men didn't return from shoveling and Sally finally found them in the alley. Roger wouldn't let them quit until they had cleared behind the garage so the cars could be backed out. "Tomorrow'll be Sunday," he explained archly.

"So what," the vanquished Rob snapped.

"Be-kind-to-Lee-day. I'm inviting you to the Club to dinner. Should lend variety to your lives."

It did.

"Better let me drive," Roger suggested as we climbed into the sedan the next day. "It'll be easier getting past the sentry."

We wound up the highway to Gore Field and made the right-angle turn onto the army road. A plow had cleared a lane, piling the snow high up on either side.

Roger insisted upon letting us out at the Club driveway entrance. It was his first appearance at the Club and our first as his guests, and we waited for him to make his grand entrance.

He described a wide arc as he swung the car out onto the main road. One minute we saw the car. The next we didn't. It wasn't an entrance he made; it was a fade-out. Roger, on hands and knees like an Eskimo coming out of his igloo, burrowed through the snow-drift and up onto the road. "Bad spot, that," he said amiably indicating the place in which the car reclined on its side athwart the ditch and hidden by the snowbank. "I'll have to call it to the Engineer's attention in the morning."

"Oh, yeah," Rob stormed. "And what about the car tonight?"

"Oh, that! I'll call the motor pool to pull it out."

"And how well they'll know how," I mused.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

Stockholm — (P) — The Reverend Erik Arbin, Stockholm, had a piece of friendly advice for young couples wanting to get married quick. He told them the story of a marriage ceremony which was prolonged for several minutes because the bashful bride refused to say "yes." The sweating clergyman finally coaxed her into it but afterwards asked why she had been so reticent.

"You shouldn't be too anxious," said the bride.

Inspects Foundry Brother Designed For Harvester Co.

Mrs. Frank McCarthy has returned from an interesting week end spent with her brother, V. E. Staff in Louisville, Ky., having made the trip by train and plane.

While in Louisville, Mrs. McCarthy had opportunity to visit one of the world's largest and most modern iron foundries, designed by her brother and built for the International Harvester Co. Mr. Staff is an engineer with Deleuw-Cathens Engineering Co., Chicago.

The huge foundry covers 13 acres and is of glass and steel construction. Six cupolas nine feet in diameter and 100 feet high have a capacity of 750 tons of castings per day. All moulding is by a continuous process. The estimated cost of the plant is reported to be about $17,000,000.

Mrs. McCarthy and her brother spent Saturday touring the Blue Grass region in Kentucky where they saw Whirlaway, a former Derby winner, and other famous race horses. Mrs. McCarthy also visited Frankfort, the state capital, during her trip.

Claim Transient Tossed Bottle At Post Office

A middle-aged transient was held prisoner in the Scott county jail at Winchester Tuesday after he is alleged to have tossed a bottle at a window in the post office building there. The window was not broken.

The man, giving his name as Bennett Hammond, is said to have told Winchester officers that he threw the bottle deliberately, hoping to be picked up and given medical attention.

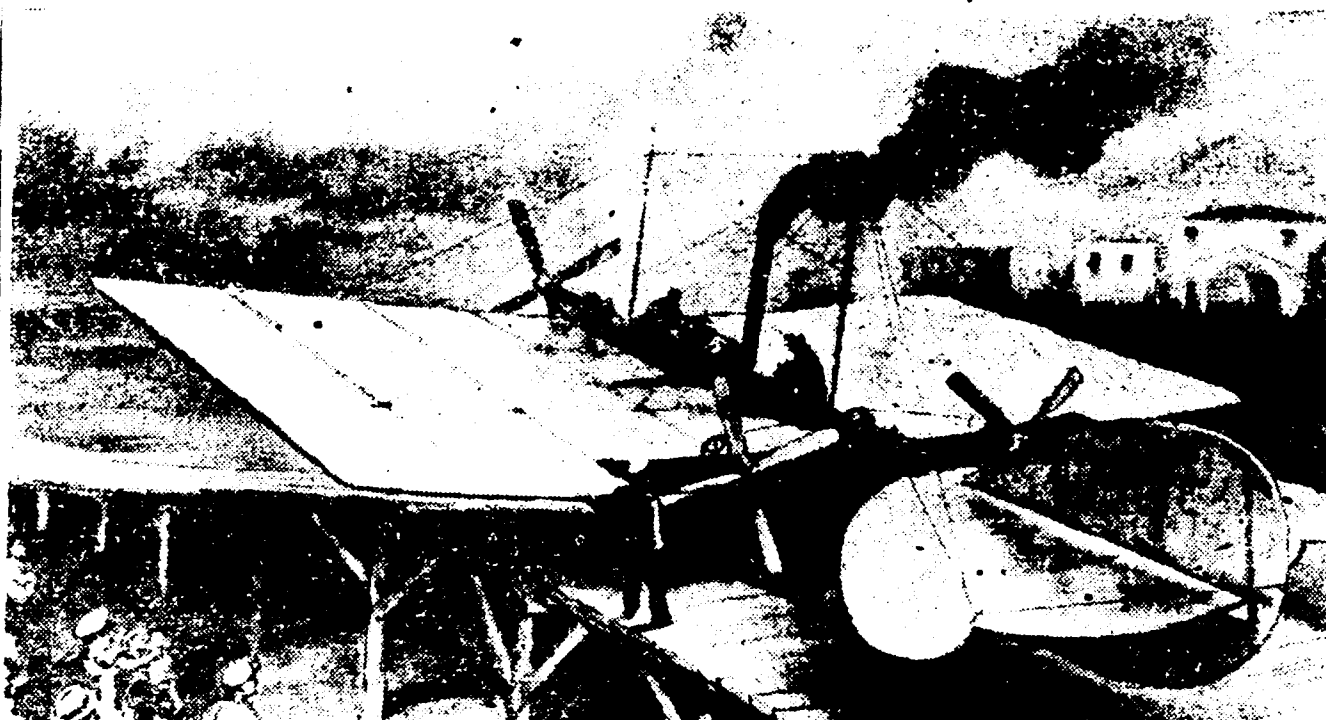

He was identified as the same man who was given shelter at the police station in Jacksonville last Sunday. Hammond told officers that he served 14 years in Chester penitentiary for forgery. He said he underwent an operation last summer.

After spending the night at the local police station, Hammond is believed to have hitch-hiked to Winchester. He is reported to have been nabbed in the act of hurling a bottle at the post office, the arrest being made by the Winchester night officer. The suspect was turned over to Sheriff Randall Killebrew.

Scott county officers Tuesday were debating what action to take in the case.

The early Greeks believed that eating onions would insure courage in battle.

Maybe Orville and Wilbur Just Improved on It

This, according to the official Soviet picture agency, is "Mozhaisky's plane, on the runway made of boards, before the takeoff for the world's first flight in a heavier-than-air machine." Unable to furnish actual photographs, the Russians supplied this painting to prove their claim that Russian inventor Alexander Mozhaisky produced this steam-powered flying machine, with three four-bladed propellers, and successfully flew it July 20, 1882.

Optometrist Would Make Machine Public Enemy No.1 Of Pitchers

It's Rickey Influence--Southworth

By Harry Grayson
NEA Sports Editor

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(NEA)—Dr. W. J. Latimer, has spent several years developing a machine which the veteran Toronto optometrist says tests a batter's eyes and his ability to follow the ball to the point of impact.

With charts and graphs arrived at by means of this contrivance and through other trials, Dr. Latimer contends he can accurately predict whether a recruit will hit little more than his weight or be something approaching a Stan Musial or Ted Williams.

Just take 'em to the laboratory and get the straight dope right from the feed box.

Full time at baseball camps and tryout schools henceforth can be devoted to the other aspects of the game. Hitting, the most important thing of all, or the lack of it, is solved automatically. A long-time fan, Dr. Latimer is confident that with eye exercises and the gadget he can double the 30 or so 300 hitters in the majors.

But Billy Southworth seriously doubts that Dr. Latimer's machine will become the pitchers' Public Enemy No. 1.

"The good doctor must have been hanging around Branch Rickey," says the very practical manager of the Braves. "You say he hails from Toronto. Well, they play baseball in Canada, but it was played in this country."

"All the science in connection with hitting is right up there," and Billy the Kid pointed to the batting cage, where Pete Reiser was swinging at the offerings of Vern Bickford, the third man on the National League champions' staff.

Southworth linking Dr. Latimer with Mahatma Rickey is reminiscent of the doctor missed a good bet in not taking his contraption to Brother Rickey's alley, a grand accompaniment to the pitching machine and batting tee which added to the merriment in Dodgertown.

Measured Distance By Tape. President Rickey actually had measured by tape the distance each of 700 Brooklyn athletes—present and upcoming—stands from and back of the plate.

With Dr. Latimer's machine lending the final touch, Rickey, the great theorist, no doubt would have felt that he finally had hit upon a foolproof system.

Perhaps the most amusing incident at the Flatbush camp took place when Professor Rickey hit upon the idea of shooting the ball straight up in the air with the Dick Porter machine, or bazooka, by way of rehearsing the catchers in the surrounding of pop flies and fouts.

When the balls went out of sight, the catchers ducked and used their gloves as headgear. It reminded old Gabby Street of the day he caught a ball dropped from the top of the Washington Monument.

This is the super-machine age, and as Prof. Fresno Thompson cracked, next spring Branch Rickey is going to install batting machines to go with the pitching machines, and leave the players home. He can get just as good a line on the hitters there with Dr. W. J. Latimer's testing machine.

There's no money in the combatants, anyway, until the shooting begins.

Father Chas. Sandon, Former Local Priest, Loses Life In Fire

The Rev. Father Charles Sandon, who lost his life in the tragic fire at St. Anthony's hospital in Effingham, was formerly assistant pastor at the Church of Our Saviour. He was chaplain of the hospital where between 50 and 60 persons lost their lives early today.

Father Sandon was in Jacksonville between 1926 and 1928, during which time he served as religion instructor and coach at Routt, which at that time maintained a two-year college, as well as a four-year high school.

Chapin Society Holds Meeting

The Mary and Martha circle of St. Paul's church at Chapin held its regular meeting with Mrs. Fred Shone, Mrs. Otto Staake and Mrs. Edward Middendorf as hostesses.

Deviations were led by the pastor, Rev. Harry A. Timm.

During the business session, it was decided to give a donation to the Red Cross. A mother and daughter banquet will be held in May. A collection for the L.W.M.L. was taken. The Ladies' Aid of Trinity Lutheran church at Arenzville will be guests at the next meeting. Bandages were folded for the hospital.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Miss Mary Frye, an instructor of physical education at Fulton, Missouri, spent the weekend with her grandmother, Mrs. Lena A. Frye, 918 S. East street.

Tiny Perfume Container Teams Up With Funnel For Easy Re-filling

Tiny glass funnel simplifies the re-filling of the purse-sized container with perfume from the larger bottle. Container is fitted with leak-proof top and protected by metal case.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Purse-sized perfume containers make a logical bid for space in a hand-bag because perfume, like make-up, needs occasional touch-ups in transit for lasting allure.

What happens to many purse-sized containers, however, is that when the facon is empty it gets tossed aside because of the nuisance involved in re-filling.

So that re-filling a purse-sized container from a larger bottle of perfume can be easily accomplished without waste is the purpose of a tiny glass funnel.

This is packaged with a new leak-proof purse facon of gold-toned metal which contains a dram-sized bottle of quality perfume. Perfume trickling from a "supply" bottle to the tiny opening of a little purse traveler presents no problem when the small glass funnel is used.

"Parsley potatoes", often called for on menus, are made by boiling small new potatoes in salted water, in their skins. When the potatoes are cooked they should be peeled and mixed with melted butter and finely minced parsley.

The Also Ran

Rene Henry, NEA-Acme staff correspondent, had the tables turned on him when he went to cover a beauty contest among Paris fashion models. They thought he was "tres beau" and made him an entry in their contest, measuring him lengthwise, sideways and observing his form. Henry didn't win, however.

Chapin Club Meets With Mrs. Clark

Chapin—Modern furniture and interior decoration was the subject of the Chapin Woman's club meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Eugene Clark, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Herbert. About 16 members were present.

Following a brief business session, conducted by Mrs. E. C. Auden-kamp, vice president, Mrs. Herbert introduced Miss Norma Payne and Mr. Isler of Bressmer's store at Springfield. They presented pictures of the latest home furniture and decoration from the Grand Rapids Furniture company.

Refreshments were served. Other guests were Mrs. Verne Anderson, Mrs. Luther Brockhouse, Mrs. Ulys Davidson and Mrs. Carlton Schumacher.

HAS EXAMPLE FOR SERMON

Swindon, England —(AP)— In the middle of the Rev. C. S. Hall's sermon, a noise was heard in a rear room of the Baptist Church.

The choir arose, went back to chase out the intruder and found he'd stolen a pack of cigarettes. The members then reported back to the minister.

"That," he said, "is an example of what I am talking about—wickedness."

Stanky Preparing For Pilot's Job In The Majors

By Joe Reichler

(P) Newsfeatures
Bradenton, Fla.—Ask any baseball man to select the active player most likely to develop into a major league manager, and he'll say "Eddie Stanky."

Ask Stanky whether he thinks he would succeed as a big league pilot and he'll grin and reply "Sure, I've been preparing myself for just that for a long time."

Yes, Stanky's ambition is to be a manager, a big league manager, if you please. None of that minor league stuff for him.

The quick-thinking second baseman of the Boston Braves says: "There's only one business I know. That's baseball."

"When my playing days are over, I hope to become a big league manager. No, I don't want to start in the minors. I don't think that's necessary."

Keeps Eyes, Ears Open
"I've always kept my eyes and ears open, listening to different managers and older players on the fine points of the game, and I've picked up plenty of knowledge. Even when I'm sitting on the bench, or not playing, I watch every ball from the first pitch to the last. That's what every player should do if he's conscientious, and Billy Southworth, especially, is a master at his profession. Nobody gets as much out of a ball player as Bill. The man who taught me the most, however, is Milton Stock, who was my manager at Macon."

Stock, who incidentally is Eddie's father-in-law, will be a rival of Stanky this year. He has been added to the Brooklyn Dodgers coaching staff.

Four or Five Years Left
The peppery little infielder feels he has four or five more years of good baseball left in him.

The spark-plug of the pennant-winning Braves, Stanky enjoyed his best year at the bat in '48, hitting .320. He cost the Braves $100,000 last spring, and proved a bargain indeed. That was the sum Boston handed over to the Dodgers.

Just to give you an idea how much Branch Rickey, who disposed of him to the Braves, thinks of him, hear what Eddie has to say:

"Mr. Rickey promised me a job with the Brooklyn organization any time I need one," says Stanky. "I'd like to remain in the Braves organization when I'm through as ballplayer, but it's a good feeling to know that your former boss thinks enough of you to want you back any time you're ready."

Polka Dots Make Billfold Pretty

By ALICE HART
NEA Staff Writer

The ladies' wallet which has helped to reduce handbag clutter and purse-fumbling is making assestive claims now as an accessory as glamorous as a vanity case.

As far away from a man-styled wallet as a girl's can go is a new washable white leather billfold banded with polka dots. This wallet is offered as an alluring inducement to a lady to confine her change, bills, house or car keys, theater tickets or what-has-she-in-to a case which is available in a handbag with no need for searching.

If she wants to make the most fashionable uses of this stylishly-styled wallet, she can match its polka-dotted trimming to the band, facing or bow on a hat.

Spring Garden For Easter

By NEA Service

Let your Easter Sunday dinner table mirror the charms of an early spring garden if you want to create an easy-to-make setting with un-falling appeal.

A setting such as the festive one shown may be contrived in a few minutes from easily available materials.

Besides flowers—jonquils, tulips, hyacinths or whatever your garden will yield—you'll need a few Easter eggs and a toy cart or wagon. If you have pastel colored table linens—the Irish linen cloth above is a soft green with napkins of darker green—use these as a color-enhancing foil for your spring flowers. To make a nest of Easter eggs as shown, arrange eggs in a small compote with a stemmed base. The tiny cart or wagon in which this is placed may be a toy or a cardboard reproduction of one. To fill in the space around the compote and to conceal its base, mass flowers and greenery around the stem. A ceramic rabbit, borrowed from a what-not shelf or perhaps a fuzzy counterpart of same, bought from the five-and-dime store may be used to key the centerpiece to the Easter season.

More Easter eggs scattered around the cart will serve as favors for younger guests. Egg-shaped place cards are cut from pastel-colored paper, decorated with small decals and lettered in white.

Baseball's 'Reserve Clause' May Be Made Legal By Congress

Washington, April 5—(AP)—Baseball's famous "reserve clause"—once more under fire in the courts—may be legalized by congress.

Legislation to exempt baseball and other organized sports from prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust laws was introduced in the House today.

Rep. Herlong (D-Fla.), former president of the Florida State League, and Rep. Mills (D-Ark.) are sponsoring the measure.

Chairman Cresser (D-Ohio) of the House Commerce committee called for prompt hearings—probably starting April 14, before the major league baseball season begins.

Top sports officials and stars would testify.

Herling and Mills told reporters their action was prompted by pending federal court suits seeking to hold the "reserve clause" invalid on the grounds that baseball is an interstate commerce activity.

Baseball officials have said that invalidation of this clause would ruin baseball. In effect, it binds a player to remain with the club with which he has contracted unless the club releases him. It gives a club prior rights to a player's services from season to season.

As long ago as 1922, the United States supreme court held that baseball was not trade nor commerce within the scope of the federal anti-trust laws.

But that was in the days before radio and television broadcasting became big factors in staging sports contests.

Federal court suits now pending in New York contend that such broad-casting of baseball games has changed the picture—that in effect baseball now comes within the scope of interstate commerce.

May Wheat, Corn Recover After Earlier Slump

Chicago, April 5—(AP)—May wheat and corn made rapid recovery from today's low on reports at the Board of Trade that the government had increased its purchase price.

Before the rally started, prices had drifted lower until both wheat and corn were about a cent under the previous close.

Lard and soybeans were weak the greater part of the session, but managed some recovery on the strength of grains.

Country receipts continued small with corn bookings on a to-arrive basis placed at 20,000 bushels.

Receipts were: wheat 15 cars, corn 22, oats 8 and soybeans 2.

At the finish wheat was 1/2 to 1/4 higher than yesterday's close, May $2.16. Corn was unchanged to 1/4 higher, May $1.33 1/4. Oats were 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, May 69 1/2. Rye was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, May $1.24. Soybeans were unchanged to 1/4 higher, May $2.19 1/2. Lard was 10 cents to 15 cents a hundredweight lower, May $11.50.

Robert Bradney Argues Case For Harvard Club

Robert E. Bradney of this city was of the oral counsel for the Pitney club in the Ames Competition at the Harvard law school in the quarter-final argument of the case of the United States vs. Glen Berry. Results of the quarter-final argument have not been learned here.

Mr. Bradney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Bradney, 135 City Place, is completing his second year in Harvard law school. He was chosen as one of two students to serve as oral counsel in the annual competition, his colleague being James T. Rhind, a graduate of Ohio State, '44.

Mr. Bradney was graduated from Illinois College in 1947. For the past two summers he has been employed in the news department of the Journal Courier in this city.

Two members of the Morgan County Bar association were on winning teams in the Ames Competition while attending Harvard law school. Attorney W. L. Fay was of oral counsel for the Powell club in 1938, and Attorney W. R. Bellatti was of oral counsel for the same club in 1939.

The argument between the Pitney and Powell clubs this year dealt with the question of whether a state official may be indicted under the Federal Civil Rights Act for enforcing a state miscegenation statute.

School To Receive United Nations Flag Wednesday

The League of Women Voters will present a flag of the United Nations to the Jacksonville high school on Wednesday morning at an international affairs assembly program. The high school band will play the "March" and several "Little Songs" of the United Nations.

Mrs. Lawrence Paset, of the League's Committee on International Relations, will make the presentation.

Paul Harris, Jr. of Putney, Vermont, will be the speaker. He is a world traveler, lecturer, author and social relations counselor. Mr. Harris and his wife have intimate "on-the-spot" knowledge of Europe, Mexico, Argentina, Chile, Peru, and other South American countries.

For the past five years he has made his home in New England. As a lecturer he is basically concerned with how human beings live together, and it is his purpose to stimulate thought. He is a Quaker who lectures independent of any organization or program. His views are his own.

Virginia Pipeline Worker Discusses Life In Venezuela

Virginia—Fifty men were present at the Virginia Kiwanis club meeting held at the Legion Hall Monday evening. President Paul E. Young presided and the Rev. Henry F. Higgins led the group singing.

Johnnie Virgin has been with the William Brothers Construction Co. for many years. Wherever pipe lines or pumping stations are being built representatives of William Brothers will be on the job.

The speaker gave an interesting account of work being carried on in Venezuela in building a pipe line to the coast. Roads are few and far between and planes are usually used by the Americans in getting from place to place.

Two plane loads of food are flown in each week from the states. Hospitals are staffed with Venezuelan doctors with nurses from the United States. School facilities are provided for the children of employees from the United States.

Natives live in mud huts and sleep in hammocks. Goats are everywhere and goat meat is standard fare for the natives. Living conditions for the natives have been improved since the oil companies developed the territory.

Pipe lines are placed on top of the ground. Work will start soon on a 30 inch pipe line.

Peace Hopes Brighter Chapel Speaker Feels

MacMurray College classes began on Tuesday, after the spring vacation recess. Chapel service was held in Grace Church at 11 a.m., with Paul Harris, Jr. of Vermont, world traveler and lecturer, giving the address.

Mr. Harris announced his topic in the form of a question: "Are the doors opening?" He stated his belief that in spite of present world tension, division, and armaments preparation, the doors to peace and national reconciliation are opening, though ever so little.

The speaker reviewed and weighed the happenings of the past 12 months, listing on the debit side such things as the death of men like Gandhi, Bernadotte, and others in the Berlin airlift, the millions of homeless and refugee persons, and growing U.S. unemployment and falling production and prices.

On the credit side he counted the relief work overseas, now taken out of the hands of government and put into those of such agencies as the American Friends Service Commission, which he feels is not only succoring the needy, but is doing so in a manner favorable to reconciliation.

"Then there is the fact that an American Negro, Dr. Ralph Bunche, has achieved planetary stature by his work for peace between Arabs and Jews in Palestine," he continued. "These, together with certain other changes, give evidence that the doors are opening."

Mr. Harris was not enthusiastic about the Marshall Plan, feeling that its real aim is to bolster our sagging economy, or about the North Atlantic Pact. "The pact is said to be an instrument against aggression," he contended, "but what is aggression? Nations cannot agree among themselves just what constitutes it; the judges at the Nuremberg trial refused to define it. We need to reexamine its meaning."

But though he castigated several aspects of the pact, he felt that it may do some good.

New Skepticism Needed
"What we should do," he warned, "is to examine the American and British attitude in the face of crisis and danger, and compare it with that of Jesus. We need a new skepticism about our so-called Christian faith. Do we believe that Jesus rose from the dead? If so, why do we worry? When he rode into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday, he did not one thing to protect himself. What are we doing? We also need to stop talking about independence and the innumerable inter- internationalism, and so on, and examine the idea of dependent sovereignty—with God as sovereign."

Wilbur Sheridan, organist, and College choir furnished the music, the choir singing an exceptionally fine number by Guion, "At the Cry of the First Bird."

Dr. Stenzel Leads Great Books Group In Monday Session

Dr. Joachim Stenzel was guest leader for the Great Books seminar at the public library on Monday evening when the discussion was based on Machiavelli's "The Prince."

Niccolo Machiavelli (1469-1527), Italian historian and statesman, was from 1498 to 1512 secretary of an important political body of Florence. Though he wrote poetry, historical works, and comedies, Machiavelli is best known for his political treatise, "The Prince." In this work he maintains that a ruler is justified in adopting any means to attain his ends.

Although it is from this work that we have acquired in our language the epithet Machiavellian, meaning marked by political cunning, Dr. Stenzel stressed the fact that Machiavelli later wrote the "Discourses," which show more careful thought and a less callous attitude toward his fellow man.
